Dulé Hill in "The Express Way with Dulé Hill"

Creative states: Tour America with homegrown artists in 'The Express Way'

From sea to shining sea, Americans express their creativity, and the new, four-part documentary series "The Express Way With Dulé Hill," premiering Tuesday, April 23, on PBS, looks at the ways self-expression and creativity are intertwined. Featuring artists from four different corners of the United States — in California, the Appalachian region, Texas and Chicago — "The Express Way" looks at the ways these individuals use art to make connections within and outside of their communities and how they use their artwork to challenge views and blaze a trail for others to follow in the future.

Best known by most for his portrayal of Gus in eight seasons in the detective sitcom "Psych," which he also reprised for three spinoff films, Hill, a real TV veteran, has also had starring roles in "The West Wing," "Ballers," "Suits" and more recently, the ABC sitcom "The Wonder Years."

Now, turning his attention to the artistic pursuits of others, PBS shared in a news release that Hill traveled across America "to connect with local visionaries, activists, changemakers and pioneers who are using their artistic passions to foster connection, deepen empathy and create meaningful change within their communities."

"There are many people in this world who create space out of nothing. They are the ones turning on the light, setting the path and then guiding others along the journey," Hill shared about the series in the release.

Shaheem Sanchez, known for his performance in the 2019 film "Sound of Metal," is a deaf dancer based in Los Angeles. Hill meets with Sanchez in the first episode of "The Express Way," connecting over a shared passion for dance before getting to know other artists across California.

Also featured in the California stop of "The Express Way" is a group of senior citizens who call themselves the Grant Street Follies, a committed activists and cabaret performers in San Francisco who use their art to combat anti-Asian hate and celebrate the city's historic Chinatown. Finally, Hill meets trailblazing musicians in Los Angeles's own Mariachi Arcoiris, the world's first LGBTQ+ mariachi group.

Visiting the Appalachian region, Hill gets a thorough musical education. In Kentucky, he meets first with Doug Naselroad, the founder and director of Troublesome Creek Stringed Instrument Company. His program, The Culture of Recovery, teaches people to make stringed instruments as an assistive outlet while they recover from opioid addiction. In Johnson City, Tennessee, Grammy-nominated bluegrass musician Amythyst Kiah ("Black Myself") teaches Hill about the history of Black artists in traditional American music. The founder of "Latin-grass," musician Joe Troop ("Red, White & Blues"), shares how he fused folk music with bluegrass instrumentation and continues to innovate with his latest collaboration with Venezuelan musician Larry Bellorin ("Caballo Viejo").

Next, Hill makes his way down to Texas to meet artists who are leaders within their local communities. Hill meets Abuela M'api Rainflowa, founder of Houston Aztec Dance & Drum, who shows him the "Mexico" handshake, as well as the Aztec Sun Dance and a sweat lodge ceremony. At his next stop in Texas, David Lozano, executive director of Cara Mia Theatre, welcomes Hill to Dallas, sharing with him some of the theater's productions that focus on the Latino experience. In Denton, John Bramblitt, a man who lost his vision taught himself to paint again using touch. Bramblitt creates vibrant paintings and murals, leads workshops and helps foster artistic abilities in other people with vision impairment.

In the final installment of "The Express Way," Hill blows into the Windy City to meet artist activists. In Chicago's South Side, Hill watches on as the Andre Theatre Collective casts its first play written by incarcerated playwrights. The production explores crime in the city and its impact on Black communities. Elsewhere in the city, Vershawn Sanders Ward's Red Clay Dance uses African Diasporic dance to make a space for People of Color in her community to feel seen. Hill later meets musician Bassel Almadani, of Bassel & The Supernaturals ("Smoke"), who spreads awareness of the Syrian civil war and refugee crisis with his platform.

“Little Women” (April 22)

This adaptation of Louisa May Alcott’s novel, set in 19th century Massachusetts, follows the lives of four sisters — Jo (Saoirse Ronan), Meg (Emma Watson), Amy (Florence Pugh) and Beth (Eliza Scanlen) — as they grow from childhood and attempt to find themselves in adulthood. Laura Dern, Timothée Chalamet and Bob Odenkirk also star.

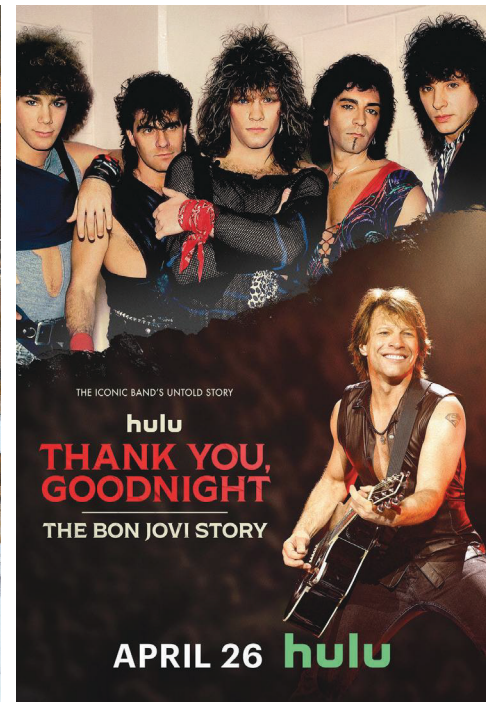

“Booked: First Day In” - Season 1 (April 25)

This unscripted series follows arrested individuals through America’s booking process, offering an extraordinary look at the most unusual, bizarre and often tense bookings. Every year in America, nearly 9 million people are arrested and booked into jail. Each episode follows the story of arrestees as they move through the system and recount what ultimately led to their time in jail. From both the arrestees’ and the officers’ points of view, viewers will be taken on a harrowing adventure as they watch the entire booking process.

“Mountain Men” - Season 11 (April 25)

This History Channel series shines a spotlight on the enduring spirit of the wilderness and the age-old tradition of the “mountain man.” In the farthest reaches of the North American wilderness, some of the bravest individuals chose to step away from modern conveniences to embrace this rugged lifestyle. The show takes viewers on a journey to remote, awe-inspiring regions where few dare to venture, providing an intimate look into the lives of these mountain people as they navigate unforgiving landscapes and battle the elements to pursue their independent way of life.

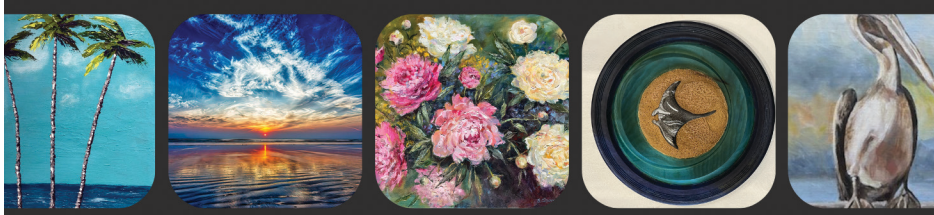

“Thank You, Goodnight: The Bon Jovi Story” (April 26)

This four-part, all access docuseries chronicles the epic past and uncertain future of one of the most recognizable bands in the world and its frontman, Jon Bon Jovi. A 40-year odyssey of rock and roll idolatry on the precipice as a vocal injury threatens to bring everything to a screeching halt. The film joins the band in February 2022 and follows their real time journey with its fits and starts as they attempt to chart out their future.

More than a decade after the spark of their romance first ignited, the bond between the ever-imperfect Alice (Andrea Riseborough), a single woman focused on her career, and Jack (Domhnall Gleeson), a lonely scientist, is stronger than ever — but no fire can burn on forever. Joining the couple one last time, the final episode of "Alice & Jack on Masterpiece" premieres Sunday, April 21, on PBS. All previous episodes are available to stream online, at pbs.org/wgbh/masterpiece/shows/aliceandjack/#

In with a bang, and out with a whimper: following reports of Frances Winn's nine-day abduction, the end came quickly for the Synanon cult. With his grasp on reality becoming fragile, Chuck spends thousands of dollars on guns and ammunition — only to lose everything after being sentenced to five years probation, later dying quietly in a nursing home. See the fall of a rehabilitation program gone terribly wrong in the season finale of "The Synanon Fix: Did the Cure Become a Cult?," airing Monday, April 22, on HBO, with a trailer for the full docuseries available at hbo.com/the-synanon-fix

Food and friends: Celebrity guests join Garten in six all-new episodes

The table has been set for Season 4 of “Be My Guest With Ina Garten,” beginning Sunday, April 21, on Food Network.

According to an episode description shared by the network, the six-episode season begins as Ina welcomes her close friend, actress Jennifer Garner (“13 Going on 30,” 2004), for a day of cooking and conversation on Ina’s property.

“Since Jennifer mentions she has trouble nailing her grandmother’s cornbread recipe, Ina troubleshoots with her incredible Brown Butter Skillet Cornbread,” the description shares. “After discussing family, love and childhood memories, they head into the kitchen for a pizza collaboration to create the ultimate Garner and Garten Pizza and Jen’s Pizza Crackers.”

In the following episode, Ina is joined by astronaut Nicole Mann, who rolls her sleeves up and joins the “barefoot contessa” in the process of making an Apple Crostata — a dish Mann craved regularly while commanding the International Space Station. Together, they discuss their careers and family lives, before digging into a slice of warm, ooey-goey, apple-y goodness.

With great conversation to be had — and many dishes to taste — Ina then bids farewell to her “out of this world” sous chef, preparing for a whole season’s worth of formidable friends. From actress Emily Mortimer (“Mary Poppins Returns,” 2018) and restaurateur Danny Meyer (“Top Chef”), to writers like professor Frank Bruni and the New Yorker’s acclaimed editor, David Remnick, Ina’s kitchen-table philosophy shines through: the more, the merrier.

“Ina then welcomes culinary entrepreneur Danny Meyer to dish about the highs and lows of the restaurant world over Croissants and Smoked Salmon served with delicious Vanilla Coffee Shakerato; shares amazing stories with journalist Frank Bruni as they enjoy her foolproof Gruyere and Herb Omelet with fresh herbs from her garden; treats actress Emily Mortimer to her favorite ravioli in Ravioli en Brodo while talking life, love and the secret to Emily’s Yorkshire Pudding; and has dinner in the garden with brilliant editor David Remnick joined by their other halves — Ina’s husband, Jeffrey, and David’s wife, Esther,” Food Network continues.

With plenty of conversation to come, Ina shared her excitement for the upcoming season of guests and was quoted as saying: “I learn so much about my guests when they visit and viewers will, too. There’s nothing better than chatting with interesting people over great food — each episode is filled with unexpected stories, laughs and inspiration.”

Produced by Pacific Productions, Season 4 of “Be My Guest With Ina Garten” premieres Sunday, April 21, on Food Network.

BEST AUTO RACING MOVIES

Elvis Presley and Ann-Margret in “Viva Las Vegas”

“Viva Las Vegas” (1964): As the second season of The CW’s reality series “100 Days to Indy” starts Friday, April 26, this is the song-filled Elvis Presley version of auto racing ... but with that said, his star power merged with that of Ann-Margret is undeniable.

“The Great Race” (1965): There’s not much suspense, but some solid slapstick, in director Blake Edwards’ saga of rivals behind the wheel (Jack Lemmon, Tony Curtis) in a turn-of-the-20th-century contest.

“Winning” (1969): Paul Newman adopted racing as a personal hobby as a result of his work on this drama, about the rivalry between two drivers (Newman and Robert Wagner) over a woman (Joanne Woodward, the real-life Mrs. Newman).

“Death Race 2000” (1975): Racing doesn’t get intentionally more lethal than in this cult classic that stars David Carradine, but gave Sylvester Stallone one of his first big roles.

“Heart Like a Wheel” (1983): Bonnie Bedelia earned a Golden Globe in the true story of Shirley Muldowney, who entered the drag-racing world after watching her husband’s performance behind the wheel.

“Days of Thunder” (1990): Many genre traditions are recycled in this story of a cocky hothead (Tom Cruise) who learns his lesson — actually, several of them — when he joins the NASCAR circuit.

“Cars” (2006): The aspirations of the animated Lightning McQueen (voice of Owen Wilson) are the focal point of this Disney story, also featuring Paul Newman’s voice in one of the actor’s last roles.

“Ford v Ferrari” (2019): Christian Bale and Matt Damon are excellent in their respective roles as driver Ken Miles and engineer Carroll Shelby, who were a potent duo as they readied to race at Le Mans in the mid-1960s.

Q: After the Oscars, much was made of the fact that Emma Stone and Jennifer Lawrence are close friends. Why, then, did Sally Field do the tribute to Emma Stone on the show instead? – Casey Grimes, via e-mail producers tried to play up connections between performers who had worked together, and Field played Aunt May in the two “Amazing Spider-Man” movies that featured Stone as Gwen Stacy. Thus, she could speak to Stone's professional acumen on the set.

A: In gathering past winners of the acting categories to present this year's awards, the

As photos taken after the presentation showed, Stone had plenty of time to commiserate with Lawrence as the evening went on, with Stone firmly grasping her second Oscar for best actress. She won that for “Poor Things,” while her first one had been for 2016's “La La Land” — which also starred Ryan Gosling, whose Oscar-show rendering of the “Barbie” tune “I'm Just Ken” was pegged by Stone as the likely reason she “broke” her dress by singing and dancing energetically before she took the stage.

Emma Stone wasn't thrown by her Oscar tribute

Q: Why did so many shows go into reruns so soon after their new seasons started? – Barry Kahn, Colorado Springs, Colo.

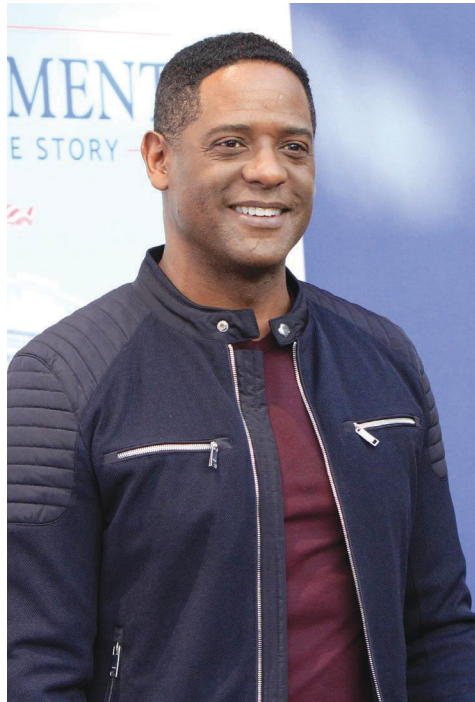

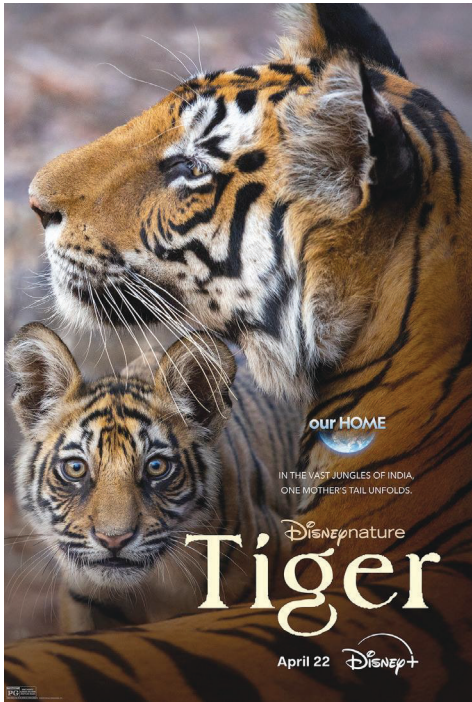

A: Actually, the great bulk of scripted broadcast-network series typically air repeats as spring nears, but it may have seemed more pronounced this time because of the late start the television season got. Last year's entertainment-industry strikes kept most shows from running new episodes until this past January, February or March, and with the impact on production, presenting some reruns gave the shows some leeway to catch up on their schedules for making stories for the remainder of the season.

By the same token, networks like to have their shows stay as fresh as possible until the traditional television season ends in May, so mixing in some repeats allows for the season's last new episode to be held until that general time frame. Because of the strike-related delay, series that normally would generate 22 episodes per season only have had an average of 10 or 12 this time, so that cutdown has largely dictated what the networks have needed to do.

“Tiger” (April 22)

Narrated by Priyanka Chopra Jonas, this Disney+ nature series lifts the veil on our planet’s most revered and charismatic animal, inviting viewers to journey alongside Ambar, a young tigress raising her cubs in the fabled forests of India. Curious, rambunctious and at times a bit clumsy, the cubs have a lot to learn from their savvy mother who will do all she can to keep them safe from pythons, bears and marauding male tigers.

“Tiger on the Rise” (April 22)

Narrated by Blair Underwood, this Disney+ nature documentary celebrates the remarkable comeback of one of the world’s most iconic animals. Tiger populations have rebounded so successfully, many of the big cats are venturing from India’s forest reserves into farms and villages — a monumental challenge for both people and animals. The heroes in this story are the vets, scientists, and community patrols dedicated to ensuring that tigers and people can coexist.

“Bring It!” - Season 6 (April 24)

When you’re competing at the highest levels, hip-hop majorette competitions can be surprisingly intense and The Dancing Dolls of Jackson, Mississippi, are one of the top dance troupes in the US. Founded by Dianna Williams, aka Miss D, in 2001, the troupe has earned more than 100 trophies and 15 grand champion titles. This docuseries shows what the Dolls go through to get to the top of their game and, they hope, the top of their competitions.

Her no-nonsense advice is, of course, always present.
