"I Can See Your Voice"

Hidden talent: 'I Can See Your Voice' reveals more secret voices

They say you can fake it 'til you make it, and there is nowhere that idiom is more true than on "I Can See Your Voice." The musical mystery game show returns for its third season Tuesday, Sept. 19, on Fox, as host — and series creator — Ken Jeong ("The Afterparty") leads contestants through a series of guessing rounds centered around six talented lip-synchers.

Among the "secret voices" are true vocalists and imposter songbirds who all perform on stage to stellar pre-recorded vocals, but only the real singers perform to their own backup track. If the contestant correctly identifies a genuine performer in the final round without hearing a single note, they're singing all the way home with the $100,000 grand prize. Whether the secret voices are retired vocalists, up-and-coming artists, hobbyist singers or just convincing fakes is only revealed once the contestant locks them in for elimination or their final selection.

This season, Fox promises "all-new theme nights," featuring duets between celebrity musicians and contestants' "secret voices" picks — for better or worse. The contestants don't know just how many of the six secret voices are good or bad singers, meaning that while each elimination round reveals the true voice of one of the lip-synchers, the contestants have no clue whether they're producing sweet music or a train wreck in the final duet performance.

The duets ratchet up the nail-biting tension for the contestants, panelists, studio audience and musicians alike. Singer-songwriter and "The Masked Singer" winner, Jewel (You Were Meant For Me," 1995), made an appearance in the second season of "I Can Hear Your Voice," and after having aided the night's contestant from the panel, she herself was nervous to hear if the secret voice really had pipes when they took the stage together. Luckily the secret voice was hiding a true talent for crooning.

Contestants on "I Can See Your Voice" have limited information on the secret voices — they are defined solely by their occupation — leaving the lip-synchs as the most credible evidence of performance prowess. Throughout the elimination rounds, contestants get help from a panel of celebs anchored by Adrienne Bailon-Houghton ("The Real") and Cheryl Hines ("Curb Your Enthusiasm") with a rotating chair of guest judges and featured musical artists.

In addition to the panel, contestants have the opportunity to use the "golden mic" (an impression from a celebrity offscreen about the lip-synch performances), a look into a day in the life of one of the secret voices, a testimonial from a secret voice's biggest fan and a peek into the secret voice's home. Not every clue is a helping hand, however, as the tools at the contestants' disposal are filled with both genuine hints as well as red herrings.

A final interrogation round before the contestant locks in their ultimate selection allows them to ask one of the remaining two secret voices as many questions as they can in 30 seconds. They can ask anything they want, except for the secret voice to belt out a quick tune. Whether seeing a secret voice waffle over their answers or come prepared sets off alarm bells is up to the contestant to decide.

The season premiere of "I Can See Your Voice" follows another mystery voice competition series making its second season premiere the same night. "Name That Tune" returns with more of its celebrity edition. Celebrity contestants including athletes, TV personalities, actors and musicians compete to identify songs in a series of challenging games, affording the celebs the chance to win over $150,000 for their charity of choice if they really know their tunes.

"I Can See Your Voice" also joins more Fox game shows filling out the network's fall lineup, including the momentous 10th season of one of their breakout hits; "The Masked Singer" enters double-digit seasons with a whole new roster of elaborately costumed celebrities putting their best voice forward for judges Jeong, Jenny McCarthy-Wahlberg ("Donnie Loves Jenny"), Nicole Scherzinger ("Annie Live!," 2021) and Robin Thicke ("Real Husbands of Hollywood"). Nick Cannon continues hosting duties for "The Masked Singer" this season after wrapping up "Beat Shazam," where he filled in for host Jamie Foxx ("They Cloned Tyrone," 2023), who was recovering from a medical emergency.

Plus, a brand-new game show hosted by David Spade ("The Mayor") also makes its debut on Fox this fall; "Snake Oil," executive produced by "Lego Masters" host Will Arnett, asks contestants to weed out snake oil salesmen from the real entrepreneurs to win serious cash.

Then, as the chef Gordon Ramsay suite of "Kitchen Nightmares" and "Hell's Kitchen" put cooks and restaurateurs through the ringer, the ultimate test of brawn, "Special Forces: World's Toughest Test," returns for a second season of celebrity feats of strength this fall on Fox.

Don't skip your vocal exercises or your choreography rehearsal this week, because "I Can See Your Voice" is back with a new season, premiering Tuesday, Sept. 19, on Fox.

It's time for the rubber to meet the road. From Jerry Buss's (John C. Reilly) troubled relationship with his daughter to Magic Johnson's (Quincy Isaiah) sex addiction, there have been some interesting distractions for the Lakers this year. Whether or not the player's personal lives will impact the game – and the team's future at large – all depends on the Season 2 finale of "Winning Time," premiering Sunday, Sept. 17, on HBO. ## Spooky sweets: 'Halloween Wars' returns for 'unlucky' Season 13

A fan-favorite for foodies and Halloween lovers alike, this seasonal series has revived itself once again, ushering in autumn alongside a familiar face as Jonathan Bennett ("Mean Girls," 2004) returns to host the latest (and spookiest) season of "Halloween Wars," premiering Sunday, Sept. 17, on Food Network.

After leaving the series during Season 11 to focus back in on his acting career, Bennett now returns to the "Halloween Wars" kitchen, replacing interim host Zak Bagans ("Ghost Adventures"), who appeared as a ghostly, virtual host for the past two years. "It's so exciting!" Bennett shared in a recent interview. "I was off the show for a few years and this is my triumphant return. I'm coming back for season 13. That is even more exciting because it plays right into the spookiness of all of it."

Returning alongside Bennett are some of the series' fan-favorite, classic components, including pumpkin carving, cake decorating and sugar blowing — but be prepared for shocks galore, as this unlucky season promises some new and exciting surprises along the way.

The series' first three episodes act as the "Halloween Wars" qualifying rounds, with Bennett asking the teams to complete a series of increasingly difficult tasks, including the "Monster Mashup," where each group must choose two of the scariest monsters imaginable and meld both into one ghastly creation; a round based on the 1973 classic film, "The Exorcist," and a fairy tale-based challenge that just may lead to one team's "happily ever after," as this season's judges — Aarti Sequeira (Season 6 winner of "Food Network Star") and Shinmin Li ("Holiday Wars") — eliminate one bunch of bakers, carvers and confectioners each round.

Following episodes will be split into two challenges: the "Small Scare," where teams have 45 minutes to complete an edible interpretation of a spooky theme, and the "Spine Chiller," where the time limit is extended to five hours, allowing for ultimate creativity.

Keeping to theme for this 13th season, this year's teams feature some of the show's spookiest puns yet, with names like Team Sweet Screams, Pumpkins Up the Volume, Snax Sabbath, Spice Ghouls, Pumpkin Posse, Trick or Sweet and more, with each team hopeful to prove their deliciously deadly talent in the kitchen and win the final, $50,000 grand prize.

Season 13 of "Halloween Wars" begins Sunday, Sept. 17, on Food Network.

BEST KEVIN COSTNER MOVIES

Kevin Costner, Amy Madigan and Gaby Hoffman in "Field of Dreams"

"The Big Chill" (1983): If you don't remember Costner being in this comedy-drama, you're forgiven ... since, in the final edit, only his arm and his hair have significant parts during the opening credits. He was cast as Alex, the suicidal friend the other central characters mourn, but director Lawrence Kasdan cut him out of most of the film.

"Silverado" (1985): Kasdan made up for the "Big Chill" excising by giving Costner one of the principal parts in this traditional Western, with Kevin Kline, Scott Glenn and Danny Glover among the other main stars.

"No Way Out" (1987): Costner is terrific as a Navy man caught in intrigue after his secret lover (Sean Young), the mistress of a government bigwig (Gene Hackman), is accidentally killed.

"The Untouchables" (1987): Costner successfully reinvents Treasury man Eliot Ness, who pursues mobster Al Capone (Robert De Niro) and partners with a veteran Chicago cop (Oscar winner Sean Connery) in director Brian De Palma's film.

"Bull Durham" (1988): Costner cements his amiable-athlete image in this baseball comedy, teaming him romantically and memorably with Susan Sarandon (though co-star Tim Robbins was her real-life partner for many years).

"Field of Dreams" (1989): Ask any man what his favorite Costner movie is, and chances are good that this baseball-diamond-building drama is the one. The picture encompasses many great performances, also including those of Ray Liotta and (in his last movie appearance) Burt Lancaster.

"Dances With Wolves" (1990): Costner became a film auteur relatively early on, directing and starring in this Oscar winner about a Civil War lieutenant who truly goes his own way. With his multiple accolades here, Costner shot to the top of virtually every producer and casting director's "want" list.

"JFK" (1991): This really is director Oliver Stone's film, but Costner is fine as District Attorney Jim Garrison, leading a massive cast packed with stars from Kevin Bacon and Tommy Lee Jones to Jack Lemmon and Walter Matthau.

Q: Why did ABC run the “Ms. Marvel” series recently, when it was made for Disney+? – Kim Banner, via e-mail

A: In a sense, it was all in the family to do so, since ABC and Disney+ are under the same corporate banner. However, there were some other reasons that giving the show (which is up for three Primetime Emmy Awards) a broadcast-network run was deemed desirable.

For one thing, it helped ABC fill two Saturday nights of programming while the SAG-AFTRA actors’ strike had many new productions on hold. (ABC often books non-sports Saturday nights with repeats, so it can be argued that more benefit might have been gotten from putting “Ms. Marvel” on a different night during the “regular” television season.) Also, the show is a prelude to the forthcoming theatrical feature “The Marvels,” in which Iman Vellani will reprise the role of Kamala Khan/

Ms. Marvel ...so running the series for a broadcast-TV audience also served as a massive trailer for the movie.

Q: I see that CBS has an “FBI True” series in its fall lineup. Is that a part of the network’s regular “FBI” franchise? – Dan Hilliard, Woonsocket, R.I.

A: Sort of, though it’s not a drama show like the ones made for the network by executive producer Dick Wolf. He’s not involved in “True,” which – owning up to its title – finds actual federal agents discussing cases they’ve handled. The 2013 Boston Marathon bombing is one example, and for and many facts as are known about the investigations the agents recap, the show is made quite personal by their reflections on how their work has affected them.

Originally shown by sister outlet Paramount+, “FBI True” is slated to be a Tuesday entry on CBS starting Oct. 3. Appropriately, it will precede weekly repeats of the fictional “FBI” show that stars Missy Peregrym, Zeeko Zaki, Alana De La Garza and Jeremy Sisto.

Two of my friends recommended Creeks to me and I'm so glad they did. The estimator was friendly, open and honest and gave several options and the installers were courteous, on time and cleaned up the working area. Plus, the system works great. No one likes to have to buy a new AC in the middle of summer, but their price was fair and the work was good. Highly recommend! - Renay T.
